Intro to Narrative Writing

- * Discuss what narrative writing is and what elements are typically included in this writing style.

What is Narrative Writing?

A story made up of real or imagined experiences.

Narrative Notebook

Narrative Notebook

This packet will be an important resource for you as we go through our course. It will become a space to take notes, complete writing activities, and organize your thoughts.

Write vocab terms, key concepts, big ideas, questions, or topics on this side of the line.	Write definitions, details, graphs, pictures, answers, summaries, dates, and other important information on this side of the line.

Let's take a look at our packet.

Today we are going to complete pages 1-3.

One way to organize your notes is with a T structure. It is also called "Cornell Notes" because this style originated at Cornell University.

Here is a link to your own copy of the packet if you need a blank one.

Story Starters

Emily couldn't believe her eyes.

Suddenly, it turned around and looked right at Jake.

The dog growled and ran towards her.

Everything just stopped.
