

LOOK,
I'M TRYING TO RANT HERE.

STOP INTERRUPTING
ME WITH
"FACTS" AND "REASON"

WEEK 5

Dentophobia is the fear of dentists.

Sounds legit.

Dentist: So, how's your day?

WELCOME TO SPEECH CLASS

- Attendance & Agenda
- Warm Up
- Rant Writing
- Monologues
- Speech Notebook
- Writing Time
- Just for Fun

WARM UP EXPERT INTERVIEWS

First, brainstorm a list of “experts.” Some examples might include:

- Professional taco taste tester
- Expert goat charmer
- Professional procrastinator
- Expert napper

The expert will be giving an interview to a TV show host. However, the expert is from another planet and doesn’t speak English! Therefore, an interpreter is needed.

The TV host will ask questions in English. Examples might include:

- When did you realize you wanted to be a professional....
- I heard your last experience resulted in 5 arrests. What advice do you have for those who want to attempt...

The interpreter will then translate the question from English into the expert’s native alien language. The expert will answer in their language, and the interpreter will relay that answer back to the TV host in English.

ANALYSIS: RANT

What is the purpose of this rant?

What is the difference between a rant and a persuasive speech?

WHAT IS A RANT?

A rant is a short passionate message that tries to persuade the viewer to agree with the presented opinion. Take a look at this example from Ronny Chieng.

What is the main idea here?
What is his supporting evidence?

ANALYSIS: MONOLOGUE

What is the purpose of the speech?

What is different about this format of speaking?

WHAT IS A MONOLOGUE?

What is a Monologue? It's a speech given by a single character in order to express a collection of ideas and thoughts aloud.

Listen to this narrator express his thoughts..

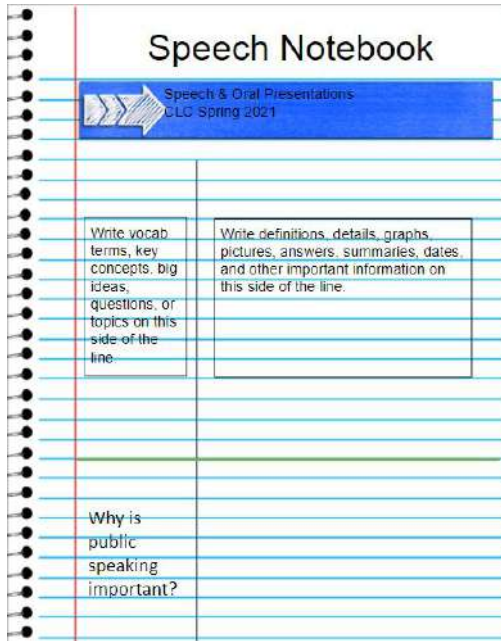

MONOLOGUES: FUNNY TO SERIOUS

Monologues can be used to enhance our knowledge of a character and their motivations. They can be funny, serious, or in between, yet they all serve a purpose. What do you feel is the purpose of these monologues?

SPEECH NOTEBOOK

Let's take a look at your Speech Notebook.

Today we will complete pages 15-16.

You can also find the notebook, today's assignment, and an answer key in Canvas if you want to complete them digitally.

Direct Links:

Speech Notebook

Answer Key

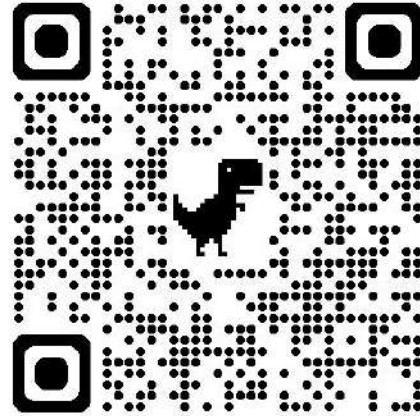

WRITING TIME

Now it's going to be your turn to have some fun ranting about things that really bother you! Or, turn it into a monologue with sarcastic, dry humor.

Brainstorm some ideas:

- × Annoying younger siblings
- × Packages you can't open
- × Group projects
- × Class clowns who waste your time
- × Take on the personality of an animal and write from their point of view

Mrs. C's Rant Example

Monologue Examples

AND NOW....THIS

Someone has a rant....part 1

Someone has a rant....part 2

Once again, John Oliver makes the most epic rants—especially during the pandemic.

*And once again there are some language bombs to mute as we watch.